President And Churchill Make Invasion Plans

Conference At Washington Is Believed To Be Preparatory To Final Invasion

CHURCHILL ARRIVES IN U. S. ON TUESDAY

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Holding their first big victory conference of the war, President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill today started mapping out the next major move against the Axis.

The general consensus in Washington is that the President and Mr. Churchill are now meeting to make the vital strategic plans for an Allied invasion of the European continent this summer.

Fifth Conference
Happy over the Allied triumph in Tunisia, the two leaders of the United Nations were together at the White House for their fifth wartime conference.

Churchill arrived in Washington late yesterday, accompanied by a staff of high ranking military and naval experts. He was greeted by President Roosevelt on his arrival and will be a White House guest for the duration of his visit.

The fateful decisions which the president and the British prime minister are expected to make at this momentous meeting are considered likely to include the following:

Program Considered

1. The approximate date for launching the most powerful invasion of the European continent in all history.
2. The place or places at which Adolf Hitler's European fortress might be stormed by the mechanized might of the American, British and

PA NEW OBSERVES

Quite a few New Castle women who had the courage to wash yesterday were rewarded by good drying weather, a hot breeze drying the clothes in short order. Today's prospects were not so good.

Despite the continued rains some victory gardeners in the locality assert they have succeeded in getting a lot of garden stuff planted. But most of the garden work is at a complete standstill because of the abnormal weather conditions.

Keep up the program of buying war bonds despite the phenomenal success of the second war loan drive. Even the large over subscription of the second loan doesn't meet demands made by the war for further huge financing.

Don't spread rumors!

Nearly a thousand boys and girls will receive diplomas in the high schools of New Castle and Lawrence county during the next few weeks, a resume shows today. This will be the second class to be graduated in war time for most of the schools and the third or fourth for a few.

Red Cross Blood Donor Service prepares blood plasma to be used in transfusions to save lives of soldiers, sailors, and civilians suffering from shock, burns, injuries, hemorrhage, or accident ashore, at sea, or in the air. Mobile unit to receive contributions of blood will be set up in New Castle in June.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 4 a. m. today are as follows:
Maximum temperature, 80.
Minimum temperature, 52.

"SMASH AND SURPRISE" DEFEATED NAZI FORCES

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN BIZERTE, May 12—"Smash and surprise" did the job, a spokesman for the United States Second Army Corps said today in describing American contribution to the North African victory.

Audacious use of tanks was credited by the spokesman for speeding up Axis capitulation. An American general sent tanks into the fray without infantry and under instructions to break through and roll up the enemy.

Caught Nazis By Surprise
This was done and it caught the Germans completely by surprise. The sudden attack was described as "completely successful."

In addition, tanks were driven into terrain of a type where tanks never had been used before, thus contributing to the surprise element.

"Some tanks crawled up hills which would have lamed a goat," the spokesman said. "This was done in order that 75-millimeter assault guns could be fired at close range."

One of the places these tactics were used with spectacular effect was at Hill 609, also known as Diebel Tahent southwest of Mateur, whose capture was called a "key factor" in the victory by Maj. Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, ground corps commander.

Flanking Moves
Extensive flanking movement by infantry troops also were a factor, one of the best examples being at

REDS CLAIM MANY NAZI PLANES DOWNED

MOSCOW, May 12.—Red army tank and infantry forces, after overrunning a center of German resistance on the lower reaches of the Kuban river, today forced forward in the west Caucasus toward the Black Sea naval base of Novorossiisk.

Big batteries of Soviet artillery, along with Russian Stormovik dive-bombers, smashed repeatedly at Nazi fortifications in advance of the onrushing troops and knocked out numerous enemy firing points.

"Northeast of Novorossiisk," said the noon communiqué of the high command, "artillery destroyed 12 firing points and a blockhouse."

One Soviet unit dislodged a force of Germans from a wood and killed 190 of them in the engagement. Considerable booty was captured.

Heavy Artillery Blasts
Heavy Russian artillery blasts were answered in kind by the Germans on numerous sectors but the Red Army appeared to be besting them at every turn.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio reported that Russian forces under cover of a smokescreen landed in

Japs Raided In Solomons

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Navy announced today that army and navy bombers carried out new raids on Jap positions in the north and central Solomons, bombing Kahili, Shortland Island, and Rekata Bay installations.

Flares were started on the morning of May 11 by army flying fortresses but results of their attack on Shortland Island were not observed, the navy said.

Later the same morning, a force of dauntless dive bombers and advanced torpedo planes, escorted by Wildcat and Corsair fighters, struck at the enemy positions at Rekata Bay, on Santa Isabel Island. Two barges and one seaplane were strafed, and the seaplane was set on fire.

None of the U. S. planes were lost.

Police Pension Funds To Get Aid From State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 12.—Legislation providing state aid for police pension funds throughout Pennsylvania was signed today by Gov. Edward Martin.

In approving a bill sponsored in the general assembly by Rep. Frank J. Tiemann (R) Philadelphia, the chief executive made available an estimated $1,225,000 for state and municipal pension funds during the next biennium.

The money will be derived from the two percent tax on premiums paid by foreign (out-of-state) casualty companies. One percent of the tax income will be paid to police pension funds on the basis of the amount collected in each community.

Heavy Attack On Base At Rabaul

Allied Bombers Blast Jap Base In New Britain In Large Raid

OTHER PACIFIC BASES ATTACKED

(International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 12.—A heavy aerial assault by Allied bombers on the Rabaul Japanese base in New Britain and other night raids on enemy bases in the southwestern Pacific were disclosed today.

Intensified clashes between small advanced ground elements in the Green's Hill area near the enemy base at Mubo, New Guinea, also were reported.

Japanese planes caused some damage and casualties in a Dutch New Guinea raid and others at attempting to attack Allied shipping off the northern coast of Australia were driven off.

Rabaul was assaulted by Allied heavy bombers under adverse weather conditions at dawn. Resultant fires were visible 60 miles as the planes bombed the Vunakanau airfield. Many small fires appeared to indicate burning enemy aircraft.

Medium bombers in the raids on the island of Timor started fires at the enemy airfields at Dilli and Kupang. In New Guinea assaults of a heavy bomber strafed shipping craft in the harbor at Alexishafen and attack planes bombed and strafed installations at Labu Lagoon. In the Lae area, heavy units also bombed and strafed Arawa and Cape Gloucester airfield, both on New Britain.

Nine planes participated in a Jap raid on Merauke, Dutch New Guinea, where damage and casualties were reported. An Allied long-range fighter dispersed three enemy float planes attempting to attack shipping off Cape Wessel, Australia, shooting one down.

Canadian Corvette Sinks Nazi U-Boat

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, May 12.—The Canadian corvette, Ville De Quebec, was credited today with destruction of a German submarine in the Mediterranean in a Royal Canadian Navy announcement.

The sturdy vessel dropped depth bombs, forcing the U-boat to the surface and then shelled it. She finished off the under-water raider by ramming it, sending it to the bottom in less than nine minutes.

Only one member of the U-boat crew survived.

The Ville De Quebec was protecting a convoy when the action took place.

Invasion Presents Some Huge Problems

Editor's Note—The possibilities of a European invasion are discussed in the following article by Major Paul C. Raborg, noted military analyst and author of "Mechanized Might."

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
Written Especially For International News Service

NEW YORK, May 12.—There are certain basic facts that should be thoroughly understood in relation to a European invasion.

Every person in the democracies should have a clear idea of the military requisites of any invasion, and then apply them to the specific problem of "a second European front."

First—No over-water invasion can be successful unless the attacking troops can effect a landing. The raid at Dieppe proved that United Nations soldiers can be placed on any portion of the European coast.

Second—An invasion having landed must be able to push immediately a sufficient distance inland to secure an area on which a base of replenishment can operate. The captured area must be large enough to contain air fields of sufficient size for long sustained offensive air operations. No expedition of any kind land or sea, can be successful in this war without superiority in the air from land-based planes.

Must Keep Route Open
Third—After the base and airfields have been established a per-

MARSHAL WAVELL WITH CHURCHILL

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England were engaged in almost continuous conferences during which they are expected to map out the next major move against the Axis.

At the same time, it was revealed that Field Marshal A. P. Wavell, commander-in-chief of British forces in India, was among the high ranking military officials who accompanied Churchill to this conference for the first big victory conference of the war between Mr. Roosevelt and the English Prime Minister.

Major Move In Burma Likely

Presence Of Marshal Wavell In Washington Augurs For Move On Japs

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Possibility of a major allied move to take Burma late this summer and deal a staggering blow to Japan was seen today as President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill held their fifth wartime conference in Washington.

Belief that a powerful move against Japan is being planned by the President and Churchill was based on the presence in the Prime Minister's party of Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, and other officers of the British high command in India.

In view of the fact that the monsoon is now underway in Burma and may not end before the latter part of August or early September, it was believed that any major military operation to strike at Japan from India probably would not start before the end of the summer.

Thousands More To Be Brought From Northern Africa, It Is Expected

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Hundreds of captured soldiers, from Germany's Afrika Korps today are already in American prison camps and thousands of other German and Italian captives are expected to soon be brought to concentration centers in this country.

Informed sources said almost all the more than 25,000 officers and men seized by American troops at Bizerte and Cap Bon probably will be transferred to this country aboard the very ships that took U. S. soldiers overseas to crush them.

The vast majority of the prisoners expected now from the African theater will be Germans, reversing conditions that prevailed before Tunis and Bizerte fell.

It was said that the German and Italian prisoners probably will be quartered in separate camps. Plans already are reported to be under way to offer the Italians and most of the Germans an opportunity to work, mostly on American farms.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN BIZERTE, May 12.—The latest official count of Axis prisoners taken in northeast Tunisia by the Second American Army Corps and units of the French Corps D'Afrique was placed at 35,912.

There were six Germans to every Italian and roughly thousands are yet to be counted.

Still Rounding Up Material
Doughboys and French troops at the same time still were rounding up vast amounts of captured war materials, considerable quantities of it intact.

One military spokesman called it "a most impressive haul. The booty included tanks 88 millimeter guns and numerous other types of equipment."

Isolated German units fired out their remaining rounds of ammunition, then capitulated and handed over their equipment.

Some of the doughboys meantime were permitted to relax a bit, some even swimming in the placid blue waters of the Mediterranean.

Tremendous Cleanup Job

But there's a tremendous cleanup-up job to do in shattered Bizerte and in nearby Ferryville. Captured enemy equipment must be

High Schools In County To Graduate 989 Seniors Within Next Few Weeks

Next Sunday, May 16 will open a high school commencement season in New Castle and Lawrence county, during which 989 high school seniors will receive their diplomas. Already a few of those who will graduate have left to begin training for service with the armed forces.

Many young men immediately eligible for military draft and others employed in war industry or engaged in farm work commencement dates for some schools have been advanced.

Most schools have abandoned plans for a class night program this year.

Elwood Graduation Early
May 16 is the date that has been set for baccalaureate service for Elwood City high school, which will graduate a class of 210 on May 18.

Dr. A. M. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Elwood City will be the baccalaureate speaker and Dr. Marcellus Nesbitt, pastor of the Beaver U. P. church, will deliver the commencement address.

In Elwood, as in a majority of the other schools, top scholastic honors are being carried away by the girls. Valedictorian is Mary Ellen Newton, salutatorian, Janice Wilson.

Baccalaureates of Mr. Jackson high school and Princeton high school are also scheduled for May 16.

Rev. William M. Altham, of Westfield church, will deliver the address to 32 Mr. Jackson seniors. Princeton's class of 14 will be addressed by Dr. J. M. Blackwood.

Second Front Cause Of Trip By Churchill

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 12.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill went to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt on plans for "a major military operation much greater than that in North Africa," well-informed quarters in London said today.

The general consensus of opinion is that the current Washington party will be the final meeting of the Allied leaders prior to the opening of a second front in Europe.

These sources said the conferences will involve essentially the planning of strategy to defeat the Axis in broad details.

The president and prime minister, it was said, will extend the "winning" blueprint mapped last January at Casablanca.

No hint can be published of course of where the Allies next will strike the Axis, but informed quarters said it can positively be said that from the meeting will evolve a major military operation much greater than that which smashed the Axis from North Africa.

"The Allies radio declared that 'an event of international importance' will be announced at the conclusion of Churchill's Washington visit."

New Statement On Wage Freezing Policy Expected

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A White House announcement is expected within the next few days clarifying the administration's wage freezing policies, possibly in time to help avert a new, nationwide coal strike next week.

This indication was left by President Roosevelt himself today after he revealed that he was holding a series of conferences with his advisers on the question.

Mr. Roosevelt stated that he had talked to Coal, Clay, Harold Ickes and Economic Stabilization Director James Byrnes. The president also added that he scheduled conferences with War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis and other home-front advisers.

Axis Prisoners By Thousands Taken To Camps

British Army Rounding Up Nazis On Peninsula—Prisoners May Reach 150,000

RESISTANCE IN TUNISIA NEAR END

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, May 12.—Allied Air Forces ran out of targets on Cap Bon Peninsula today as the Tunisian campaign neared a close and troops of the British First Army threw a ring around the entire thumb of land after occupying Cap Bon itself.

But the fliers sent their planes over Mediterranean waters and subjected the island of Pantelleria to its fourth successive day of attack. Fires were started along the docks and bombs were seen sticking among 12 small boats in the harbor.

The crack troops of Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's veteran Dunkirk army battle-trained themselves into transformed M. P.'s as their job turned from fighting into the far more pleasant task of herding Axis prisoners by the thousands into prison camps.

Aerial Activity Halts
Allied aerial activity over the peninsula came to an end at last when no more Axis targets worthy of attack were to be found. The only battle ground in all Tunisia was an area 80 miles square west of Bou Picha and north of Enfidaville where the British Eighth Army First Army troops and French units submitted a final assault to force submission of Axis units still holding their ground.

Famed empire troops which at present are not able to be identified are holding the northwestern part of the Allied ring some 10 miles east of Zaghouan, where the village of Marie Du Zit and its important airport have been occupied.

This dispatch added that end of the North African campaign is but a matter of hours.

Massed Allied air formations participated in assaults against the Nazi "Island of Resistance" in the Bou Picha-Enfidaville region to facilitate a new and final drive by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's long-stalled Eighth Army.

Collapse In Peninsula
Complete collapse of Nazi troops on the peninsula enabled undivided attention to be given to this last enemy pocket. The last time the air force was pressed on Cap Bon Peninsula was when the Axis made a futile attempt to evacuate some of its troops in JU-52 transports.

A few of these were intercepted by night-flying Hurricanes and one of them was shot down into the sea. The high command of the northwestern African tactical air force found suddenly that the British advance in the Cap Bon area was so swift that bombing had to cease lest Allied troops be hit.

Brewers Strike In Pittsburgh

Approximately 800 Brewers
In Controversy Walkout—Beer Supply Threatened

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 12—The wildcat strike of 800 brewers employed by the city's three largest breweries, which threatened to curtail Pittsburgh's beer supply within two days, has ended, union business agent
Fred Lichtenscheid announced today.

PITTSBURGH, May 12—A strike of approximately 800 brewers employed by Pittsburgh's three largest breweries today threatened to curtail seriously the city's supply of beer.

The strikers, members of Local 22, AFL-Brewery Workers union, voted last night to walk out at the Duquesne, Fort Pitt and Iron City plants because of apparent dissatisfaction over progress of negotiations for a new contract.

A spokesman for the brewing interests admitted that if the work-oppose continued for the next two days, Pittsburgh residents might have to forego their beer for a time.
He added that the striking men
"jumped the gun without sanction from their International Union headquarters in Cincinnati." The information said the Western Pennsylvania Brewers Association was holding contract conferences with the striking union and two other labor groups currently.

The spokesman said management offered the men a 15 percent wage increase, retroactive to April 1, but that the brewers had rejected the proposed salary adjustment. He emphasized that under the provisions of the "little steel" formula the brewing association could not give the men a larger raise than the proffered 15 percent.

Recent action by Soviet snipers resulted in the slaying of 172 Germans, it was reported.

The midnight communique said an Axis transport was sunk in the Barents Sea.

manent over-water line of supply must be created and this route must operate around the clock every day.

Fourth—To establish the base and line of supply, an entire can-opy of airplanes must be in the sky at all times.

The raid at Dieppe had a most efficient umbrella of air defense, but it will be remembered that the air force casualties in this eight or nine hours of fighting were terrible. The losses were reported in hundreds of planes instead of the usual twenties or thirties.

It is easy to apply this rate of greater loss to a canopy of planes which may have to serve continuously for weeks, and it is plain to see that, unless the air force is in sufficient strength, and with more than enough replacements, replen-ishments would not be delivered and any invasion effort could be rendered useless.

Once invading troops are landed they will need huge quantities of ammunition, food and other necessary supplies, without which the invasion cannot live.

YANKS COUNT 35,912 PRISONERS

registered and the seemingly never-ending task of counting prisoners must go on.

Prisoners form long lines which,
by comparison, make those outside American football and baseball stadiums seem like little groups waiting for street cars.

Both towns offer clear examples of what precision bombing can do.
Bizerte is in ruins. The whole dock area of Ferryville is blasted, but not a single house in the town proper, less than a mile from the waterfront, was hit.

Officials say there were only 20
casualties among the civilian population of Ferryville, despite day and night bombings. These casualties were due mainly to debris hurled into the town by explosions on the docks.

One Ferryville Frenchman insisted the whole populace welcomed each bombing as a "message from Heaven" announcing that the day of deliverance was at hand.

led troops became endangered. The German air force was out of the air and enemy supply dumps themselves had been set afire by the retreating Axis. So the Allied air arm turned back to the west and went to work on the Nazis north of Enfidaviile.

There followed a systematic bombing and strafing of Axis troops trapped around St. Marie Du Zil, Grom-betta and north of Enfidaviile as well as in the Zaghouan sector of the Atlas mountains. Reconnaissance flights reported many fires raging, indicating the enemy was burning its own vehicles in preparation for surrender.

Cap Bon Quiet

As the sun rose on Cap Bon's silenced battlefield, the Union Jack was raised above military garrisons and army camps all the way to the tip of the peninsula itself.

Some 100,000 Axis prisoners now have been taken. These included two more companies of the crack Hermann Goering Regiment which after having been isolated in almost impregnable deep-dug positions at Diebel Achkel for the last week were hauled down the swastika and sent the white flag across the lines.

This ended the last island of resistance in the United States Army
Second Corps area.

Bou Fichta now has fallen to the British and tattered Axis remnants are being held in a crushing grip in a tiny pocket extending from the gulf of Hammamet. Liquidation of this pocket is proceeding apace.

First Crackup

First crack-up of this Axis group came five miles south of Zaghouan when the so-called "elite" German army group—90 per cent of whom were Italians—gave in and surrendered unconditionally.

With regard to the last German holdouts, a spokesman said:

"The enemy has little possibility left for organized resistance, and is accepting the situation."
On the whole, it is all over but the shouting. There is stray shooting and an occasional spurt of activity, but come what may, there is nothing Hitler or Mussolini can do to whitewash their defeat.

Announcement of the closing phases of the campaign to rid North Africa of Axis forces was made in a communique from Gen. Dwight D.
Eisenhower's headquarters revealing that the American Second Army Corps which took Bizerte had rounded up a total of 37,998 captured Germans and Italians.

Expect 150,000 Prisoners

Isolated Axis strongholds were continually pounded from the air by Allied planes which speeded the surrender of thousands of enemy troops. The official haul in captured is expected to reach something like 150,000. Almost 100,000 already have been accounted for.

The communique disclosed that many large fires were left in the harbor and seaplane base at Mar-sala, Sicily, following yesterday's heavy raid by Allied heavy and medium bombers, and details were given on the strong assault against the small Mediterranean island of Pantellaria.

Cairo announced that United States heavy bombers in daylight yesterday blasted the harbor of Catania on the east coast of Sicily.
Yesterday the British First Army
Tunis," the text of the communique said.

"The Cap Bon peninsula has been isolated and our patrols have made a complete circuit of the peninsula itself."

"The enemy forces who still hold the hills of Bou Fichta are now completely encircled and British and French troops of the First and Eighth armies are closing in from all sides."

"In the north the American Second Corps has completed the count of prisoners. The total prisoners taken by this corps and their French allies in this battle now comes to 37,998."

The forces of heavy and medium bombers which smashed at the harbor, rail yards, warehouses and seaplane base at Marsala were described by the Allied command as large. They were planes of the strategic air force which flew in over the harbor with fighter escort.

Numerous direct hits were scored on various targets and "very large"
fires broke out as a result of bomb bursts.

other Allied air, land and sea forces.
3. The selection of supreme Allied commanders for the various invasion theaters.

4. Measures to hold off Japan in the Pacific while the final decisive blows to crush the European end of the Axis are carried into effect.
Diplomatic sources in Washington are inclined to believe that it will take at least two or three more months to prepare for a major Allied invasion of the European continent. Therefore, July or August are seen as the earliest dates for launching the "big push" in Europe though there may be preliminary raids and efforts to gain control of strategic island points in the Mediterranean in the meantime.

There is a strong belief in diplomatic circles that the president and Churchill and their military advisers will decide to launch a number of thrusts in Europe from the Mediterranean to the North Sea
when the invasion move starts.

Speculation On Main Drive

Speculation centers on the main drive developing in the western European theater, either France or Holland.

If more than one Allied general is named to command the various invasion moves, it is believed Gen.
Dwight Eisenhower, American commander of Allied forces in North Africa, will be selected for the Mediterranean area. Gen. Andrew Mc-Naughton, commander of the Canadian forces in the British Isles, is considered likely to head one of the invasion armies in western Europe, while it is thought that Gen.
Bernard Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth Army, probably would be named to lead another invasion force.

In addition to planning the grand military strategy of the next war moves against the Axis, it is believed the president and Churchill also will discuss political aspects of the world conflict during their current conference.

Treatment For Defeated Germany
The possibility is seen that a joint understanding may be reached concerning the treatment to be accorded a defeated Germany. Soviet Russia's attitude towards Europe as a whole after the war, especially toward Germany, Poland and the Baltic states, is expected to figure prominently in the political phase of the discussions which the president and the prime minister are holding.

Churchill's presence in Washington was seen as throwing some new light on the Moscow mission of Joseph E. Davies, special presidential envoy to Russia. The sealed letter which Davies is carrying from President Roosevelt to Soviet President Josef Stalin is believed to explain the purpose of the present conference. It also is considered

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T PUNISH FOR LESSON FAILURE

When we read records of frequent and severe punishments at school in days gone by and hear older persons tell of such, we discover that these punishments were usually always related to learning failures.

The school child was whipped or beaten for failing to spell a word correctly, for stumbling over difficult words in his reading, or for a wrong solution to a problem in arithmetic. Rarely was the punishment for conduct in which the child had interfered with the rights of others. Even today at school the occasional person who whips children there usually does it for learning troubles.

For example, a mother writes of her child of ten whose teacher "slaps her, sends her to her seat, calls her a dumbbell and laughs at her" when this child has trouble over number work. "She paddles her so much for not knowing her arithmetic that I had trouble getting her back to school."

As a rule, the victim child is already worried over her failures at learning. She does not stumble over words or make errors in arithmetic on purpose to annoy the teacher. Rather, these errors are made because the child has failed to master some earlier skill or fact upon which success on the task at hand depends, or is upset emotionally. It is not a matter of conduct but of learning.

A Bad Practice

Now to be in constant dread of a whipping, or of having to remain after school, or of being called a dumbbell, or of being shamed or laughed at is about the greatest possible hindrance to this child's learning the matter at hand. And to be punished or scolded at home for lagging at school is unspeakably bad practice.

Of course, some children need to be covered to stay at home on nights before school and, as soon as home work begins, to go at it at a regular time and place. Even at school they need to learn to conform to certain requirements as handling in written work assigned long enough ahead. Also at school, some children who make of themselves nuisances to their group need some restraint. Indeed, too much foolishness is allowed in some schools.

Yet for spelling a word wrong, solving a problem incorrectly, or failing to give a correct answer to a question hardly is a case for punishment. The failure usually is punishment enough, often too much, forsooth.

But teachers are usually more patient with children than parents are when these children try to learn. If only parents who try to help their children with their lessons at home would not let themselves grow angry at the child's mistakes, as they do, his lessons, but would, instead, cultivate poise and patience.

In my book, The Modern Parent, I have devoted an entire chapter to this matter. It may be found, no doubt, in your public library.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. If you suspected your child had stolen something but could get the facts only by questioning and cross-questioning him, how would you proceed?

A. I should not put him on trial or force him to testify against himself; courts of justice do not; just advise parents and teachers do. I should try harder henceforth to prevent him from temptations he is not able to withstand to make him feel more worthwhile in the family group, showing him more affection and love, trying to reduce possible jealousy in him, helping him to have more good times with others his age under safe conditions, helping him enjoy more success at work and play. My special bulletin on "Honesty and Truthfulness" may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. A young woman who says she has "an inferiority complex" writes to ask me to recommend some books for her to read that might help her. Thoughtfully, she enclosed a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

A. I sent her a selected list of books I have prepared on the subject and wrote her a personal letter making a few suggestions which I trust will help her.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
CHICAGO—Frank Knox, secretary of the navy:

"We are building this navy not alone for the purpose of winning the war but for preserving the ensuing peace as well."

WASHINGTON—Rep. Robert Doughton of North Carolina favors extension of reciprocal trade agreements:

"If we turn toward trade barriers and isolation there will be jubilation in the chancelleries of Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini."

NEW YORK—Emil Rieve, president of the C.I.O. Textile Workers of America:

"No matter how great the grievances of the miners, and that they are great, I would be the first to acknowledge, there is no justification for complete stoppage of the production of the nation's coal in this emergency period."

WASHINGTON—Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma:

"I am definitely certain we have to pay a pay-as-you-go plan but I am unalterably opposed to any forgiveness of taxes."

The only bright side of a long war is in magazine pictures of the mechanized life we'll have when it is over.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:04. Sun rises tomorrow 5:48.

America now has 8,300,000 men in uniform, and the number is to be raised to over 10,000,000. The war is a big job and it takes a lot of our best men.

An important thing to remember is that in the Victory Garden you stoop to conquer.

Now is the time we have to have all it takes and also to hand it out.

The only reason so many people sing and do not get paid for it is because no one will pay them for singing.

A lot of people do not vote at elections and a lot of birds vote who should not be allowed to vote.

A trip through the country districts shows that there is still a lot of scrap lying around. At least it looks like scrap.

EVEN THEN AS NOW

When Benjamin Franklin was 19, he visited London. He was in search of work, and having learned the printer's trade, went straight to a printing office and made known his errand. The foreman was rather disdainful and said:

"Ah, a lad from America seeking employment as a printer? Well, do you really understand the art of printing? Can you set type?"

Young Franklin stepped to one of the cases, and in a brief space set up these words from the first chapter of John's Gospel:

"Nathanael said unto him, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip said unto him, Come and see."

The text conveyed such a delicate rebuke that a position was given him at once.

How can we expect our statesmen to trust our allies when they can't even trust one another?

"That slap, slap, slap on the highway indicates a flat tire"—Esso radio ad. Or a gal saying no.

The occupational hazard of a thinker is that he does so much thinking about the way he feels.

Japs are rushing work on their new Bangkok-Rangoon railway. When it is done, they can supply their troops without ships. Why postpone bombing and make our job harder?

"I've asked Mr. and Mrs. Smith to dinner at seven, Jenny, but I think we'll give them a quarter of an hour's grace," said Mrs. Bigg.

"Well, ma'am," replied the maid, "I'm religious myself, but I think you are overdoing it."

To keep your husband humble, let him talk and then say with a superior air: "Yes, I knew all about that."

Mrs. Goolsby—What's the idea of the suitcase, Mr. Goolsby? Going away?

Goolsby—No, but I heard you talking about the church giving a rummage sale and I'm taking all my clothes down to the office until it's over.

Nothing would please the good earth more than to be tickled by a Victory Garden.

The changing world! During the coming warm months people will sit on their porches, wondering why nobody goes by.

Don't tell us your troubles—let us tell ours.

Very often when we are told a ham is cured we think it has had a relapse.

Knowing what weeds look like is a good thing to know when making a garden. A weed should be pulled up by the roots because if it grows up it will make seeds for other weeds to grow.

That Victory Garden has been planted in your mind—it looks pretty good.

It is always a pleasure to do nice things for people when they are not expecting nice things.

For anybody who may want but little here below, the place to go for it is before a ration board.

ADING OPPORTUNITY

The owner of the business had put a want-ad in the paper asking for an office boy. The next morning a long line of boys was waiting at his door. He had interviewed a number of them and had gone thru the usual formality of taking the phone number in case the decision was in their favor, when he asked one lad:

"Well, son, you've seen the long line of boys outside waiting for this job. Is there any particular reason why you think you should have the job?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy. "I'm the only boy who brought his dinner."

He got the job.

Ships are like time. If we can't make more, we can get the same results by better use of what we have.

It's the people's war, but the people can't tell generals and admirals how to run it. We've got to trust them or fire them—not nag them.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING

"As soon as I go home on my next leave from camp I'm going to ask the 'one and only girl' to marry me. I know her feelings for me are as deep as mine for her and that her answer will probably be 'yes'."

In view of these circumstances, do you think I might bring along the engagement ring ready to present it to her?—Bill.

Answer: Unless the experience of Army life make it imperative that you bring the ring when you propose.

On the contrary, if your correspondence disclosed your intentions and her replies encouraged you, she will doubtless expect your question and have her affirmative already, in which case she will probably hope that you bring the ring along with you.

And while we are on the subject of rings, let me tell you that no girl, if she is the right sort, will expect a ring from a serviceman whose monthly pay does not warrant such expenditure.

If you are in this category, explain your financial status when you ask her and let her decide whether you are worth a ring-less engagement.

Question: What are the official abbreviations for the following states: Alabama, Arizona, California, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Nevada, Colorado and Kansas?—H. H.

Answer: Ala., Ariz., Calif., Pa., Neb., Nev., Colo., Kans.

Tomorrow—Helping Mother and Dad.

REFLECTIONS OF A SWING SHIFTER.

Sure, we must buy more War Bonds, and to do this each of us should deny ourselves all petty personal luxuries—curtain all personal spending on everything except the real necessities.

That is just what every real American should do but the average American can't help thinking, "How many bonds have the people who are conducting the bond rallies bought? How many Bonds have the President and the members of his cabinet invested in? How many Bonds individually and in the aggregate have been purchased by the men who are in government executive positions in Washington?"

Seemingly, this is none of the public's business and yet there is a wide-spread doubt—a subtle whispering campaign—that many of our most important men are not buying very many Bonds.

If our LEADERS will show the working men of the nation—the other wage earners—how much they have invested in War Bonds, the wage earners will in turn show their faith and patriotism by increasing their purchase of Bonds.

And too, this will do more to stop the trend toward inflation (and insolvency of the government) than all the well-chosen words of all the political radio speeches and fireside chats put together.

It will also show the Nazis, the Fascists and the Japrats that we really mean business—that this is truly the People's War.

They don't, though.

Congress isn't supposed to clash, either, beyond a certain point.

It votes and that is how it decides matters.

The bureaucracies go on disagreeing.

Their feuds keep the capital war boiling.

Probably they do not much matter as to the international war's outcome but they will figure in subsequent politics.

It will count in 1948, if not in the next American national election in 1944.

The blessing of the cafeteria is that it has taught American people how to make decisions for themselves without having some one else do their thinking for them.

It is claimed that farm problems are being solved in this country. We have not heard any farmers say that, however. They know when a problem is solved and they have to work hard to find it out.

You can buy War Bonds any time. You do not have to wait for a special drive to come along. Buy all you can afford to buy.

Waiter—"May I help you from that soup, sir?"

Patron—"What do you mean help me from the soup?"

Waiter—"Well, sir, judging by the sound, I thought you might wish to be dragged ashore."

Inflation: A period when any dumb guy can make money, get the idea he's a big business man, and take steps to lose his shirt.

Gas tanks were made puncture-proof to prevent fires. Is anybody trying to make our tanks fire-proof instead of fire-traps?

Why didn't a corn-meal diet give oldtimers pellagra? Because the meal wasn't degerminated and robbed of food value.

Hi Hum says it would be terrible if all women were as bad as they are painted.

Who doesn't recall the breadlines that were so humiliating in a land of plenty? Now now come the whisky lines, and a pint is thought of as a drop in the bucket.

And some letters we get bring tears of joy.

Our soldier boys want to get home just as badly as their loved ones want to see them get home when their job is finished.

Inside Washington

Internal Friction Abounds In Capital
Continuous Feuds Hampering War Effort
Hull And Welles Not On Speaking Terms

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 12—I don't dare to name the military man who made the remark I plan to quote. Suffice it to say that he is pretty prominent, and like many of his professional associates, greatly irritated by the squabbling among Washington's wartime bureau heads, with undoubted delays to the activities that our international campaigns are trying so hard to accelerate. If I did quote him directly, it is a certainty that he would repudiate his utterance. Furthermore, I would lose his friendship and he is highly informative, besides being a valuable cocktail-hour acquaintance.

Well, on one of these occasions I was chatting with him concerning the difficulties Uncle Sam is experiencing in getting adequate forces as far away as Japan and other areas of conflict.

Adapting these transportation problems, "If only," observed my vis-a-vis, "our bureaucrats would get their heads together, they could provide the raw material for a solid wooden-block pavement from the United States to the Jap archipelago or Suez or any old place that we need to unload men and supplies in."

And it is an honest fact that current Washington news consists less of accounts of our fighters doing overseas and aloft than of stories concerning developments in our capital's multiplicity of internal hostilities between local belligerents.

There is no use in trying to list them.

One of my fellow scribes tried it recently.

He soon realized that it was not practical to summarize them.

It was a possibility to mention Rubber-Czar William M. Jeffers and War Production Director Donald M. Nelson as in arms against one another, but the mere bare inclusion of the Jeffers-Nelson feud in the category was insufficient. A few details were required to make the tale interesting.

That would have been all right insofar as the Jeffers-Nelson case was concerned.

But how about the Ickes-Forrestal-Moley-Peak and dozens of other similar clashes?

Incidentally, it is common talk that State Secretary Cordell Hull and State Undersecretary Sumner Welles do not even speak to one another.

The scroll is long enough to call for an alphabetical record.

It consists of columns and columns of "smears, back-stabbings, mud-slinging, name-calling and sly-whisperings."

A newspaper column is inadequate to deal with it. A whole series of articles does not cover it. It demands a series of booklets.

That naturally has been aggravated by the coal controversy but that only accentuated them; they were waiting to be accentuated.

To tell about them all couldn't be covered by a series of newspaper articles. A whole series of volumes is necessitated. It is too soon for such a library to have manifested itself.

The muss is not restricted to bureaucracy.

It slips over into congress.

It isn't quite so mean in congress, because congressmen are expected to disagree on Capitol Hill but it is ugly inter-bureaucratically; these boys are supposed to be working harmoniously.

They don't, though.

Congress isn't supposed to clash, either, beyond a certain point.

It votes and that is how it decides matters.

The bureaucracies go on disagreeing.

Their feuds keep the capital war boiling.

Probably they do not much matter as to the international war's outcome but they will figure in subsequent politics.

It will count in 1948, if not in the next American national election in 1944.

HOSPITAL

This is the house of man's nobler side.

The roof of his tenderest care. This is what gives him the right to pride.

Here is his will to share. Here can his heart and his soul be found.

In one pure, unselfish plan. The finest use man has made of ground.

Since ever the race began. Not here in the man of gain. Or advantage. Nor self entire.

All is to lessen the sting of pain. And the burning of fever's fire. This is a hospital, large or small.

Where mercy and skill abide. Perhaps of man's works, the best of all.

By which he is justified.

FUND FOR HIGHWAYS

HARRISBURG, May 11—The adoption of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the diversion of motor license fund money would enable the state to finance an extensive program of post-war highway improvements, according to the Pennsylvania Motor Federation. The fund is expected to exceed $50,000,000 by the end of May.

REFUGEE IN ARMY

The World and the Mud Puddles

OUR SOLDIERS AND LABOR

The teletype machines in the news rooms of the nation's newspapers were clattering away May 5th, recording the news of the twenty-four hours' preceding. From one of them was taken this paragraph, under a Washington dateline:

"Threat of renewed general work stoppages in the nation's coal mines grew stronger today when John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union again spurned the War Labor Board as a peace-making agency in its wage controversy."

All along the length of this ribbon (road) there is now a thin line of men. For four days and nights they have fought hard, eaten little, washed none and slept hardly at all. Their nights have been violent with attack, fight, butchery and their days sleepless and miserable with the crash of artillery.

The teletypes clattered away. A sentence read:

"Lewis smiled when asked if a representative of the miners would attend the hearings (before the War Labor Board)."

The North African correspondent's story went on:

"They are the mud-rain-frost-and-wind boys. They have no comforts and they even learn to live without the necessities. And in the end they are the guys that wars can't be won without."

The teletypes rattled on:

"Meeting only briefly in New York members of the union's policy committee refused to adhere to a virtual ultimatum to submit their demands to the board and announced that they were going home."

The last paragraph of the North African story lingers in one's memory. It said:

"There is an agony in your heart and you almost feel ashamed to look at them. They are just guys from Broadway and Main street, out you wouldn't remember them. They are too far away now. Their world can never be known to you, but if you could see them just once, just for an instance, you would know that no matter how hard people work back home, they are not keeping pace with those infantrymen in Tunisia."

Under another dateline, the teletype started a new story. It said:

"Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O., charged today that the Connally anti-strike and plant seizure bill is 'war on labor instead of war on Hitler'."

There appears to be no need for comment!

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Once again a rejected suitor (this time in Laconia, N. H.) shot and killed the girl he loved and then committed suicide.

He was a student at Dartmouth college, just 20 years old—his life before. She was a pretty blonde of 18, sales girl in a local store.

Two lives snuffed out, two families in mourning—and for what? Particularly a first love.

That same thing happens so often with variations.

Sometimes it's murder, sometimes just suicide, sometimes both.

And nothing is ever accomplished by it.

Of course, love is a wonderful thing. Without love life would, indeed, be drab.

But love isn't something that once lost can never be regained.

Particularly at twenty.

I think there should be less writing about love. It injects poison into inexperienced hearts.

Maybe the poets use it for their theme so much because it is so easy to rhyme—and with such nice words.

I'm not speaking about that supposed-to-be harmonious love of husband and wife, that serene love of a mother for her child.

I'm speaking of the terrible longing that makes every minute away from the beloved an agony, every minute together an hour in paradise.

I know it is fierce—I know it can hurt more than the cut of a knife.

But you may be sure that you can love more than once. You may be sure that there is more than one Jack for every Jill and plenty of Jills for all the Jacks.

If you lose out in love have a good cry if you are a girl, and do lots of things I can't print if you are a boy.

But never mind the shooting or the suicide business.

Counter-Suit In Dempsey Divorce

(International News Service)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 12.—A counter-suit for divorce was on file today by Hannah Williams against ex-champion Jack Dempsey.

Hannah's attorneys filed the cross-complaint in superior court yesterday charging Jack with misconduct with an unnamed correspondent. It was Hannah's answer to Jack's suit asking divorce and custody of their two children. Both suits will be tried simultaneously beginning May 24.

Steel collars, enameled white and advertised as capable of being "instantly cleaned by a slight rub with a wet cloth," were much in demand by men and women during the Civil War, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Advantages Are Held By Allies

By CLINTON GREEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 12.—Air chiefs, reviewing the results of the six-month campaign in North Africa, today found the Allies now hold three great advantages over the Axis in the Mediterranean war theater:

1. While the Allies were rushing planes to North Africa, building up an enormous air power there, they were able simultaneously to whittle away at the enemy's strength until his Mediterranean air power was cut to a shadow of what it was back in November.

2. Enemy shipping resources have been seriously drained by smashing air and submarine attacks.

3. The United Nations now have unquestionable air superiority in this theater for the next phase of the war.

Losses in men and equipment in the early stages of the drive for Tunis and Bizerte have been more than made up in the last few days of blazing successes.

Air Attack Vital

These losses would have been greater had the North African campaign reached a quicker conclusion on the ground. The enemy scarcely would have tapped its once vast air strength based on Sicily and metropolitan Italy. The Axis then would have been in a position to administer unmerciful drubbings to our troops in Algeria and Tunisia, for our landing fields there were long water-logged and covered with mud, making it impossible to give adequate air protection to ground forces.

Looking back over the campaign, it is clear now that the sheer weight of our air attacks was able to lay a "carpet of bombs" through strong enemy positions.

One striking example of this was seen May 6 when the tactical air force prepared for the advance of armored units in a mass assault by laying open the strength of terrain four miles long and 1,000 yards wide, with the efficiency of a surgeon's scalpel.

But it was the six-months "bleeding" of the Axis air forces in North Africa that brightens the picture of what the Allies will have to contend with in the war's next phase in the Mediterranean area.

"It's a sad sickening feeling when you're out on those firing lines and you think you might be needing that extra plane or that extra tank that wasn't produced."

"I wouldn't like to see any of the boys short of anything they would need out there."

Martin Considers Legislation Passed By Recent Session Of Assembly

MUST TAKE ACTION BEFORE JUNE 7

By JOHN PAGET
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, May 12 — Gov. Edward Martin today has until June 7 to approve the bulk of the legislation passed by the 1943 general assembly which adjourned Sunday after the shortest session in a decade.

He indicated most of the measures would be signed promptly because a close check was kept on the bills during their passage making it unnecessary to make a detailed study of their provisions. The more important legislation awaiting the governor's signature included proposals to:

Important Measures
(1) Replace the five-member board of parole with a three-member agency. (2) Earmark half the taxes on out-of-state casualty insurance premium payments for police pension funds. (3) Boost gross weights of tractor-trailer combinations permissible on state highways from 39,000 to 45,000 pounds for the war's duration. (4) Suspend civil service protection for state employees during wartime. (5) Increase teachers' salaries more than $24,000,000. (6) Prohibit labor unions from making political contributions and permit the governor to suspend laws hampering the war effort upon the recommendations of federal officials.

Also, (7) establish a sliding and reduced scale for unemployment compensation taxes ranging between one and two per cent. (8) Permit children over 14 living in rural areas to work on farms during the school term if labor shortages exist. (9) Require municipal authorities planning to purchase privately-owned utilities to secure the permission of the Public Utility Commission. (10) Permit the Liquor Control Board to ration liquor. (11) Authorize the State Defense Council to establish regulations to control "black markets."

Transfer Employees

Also (12) transfer the appointments of 388 inheritance tax division employees from the Democratic Auditor General's department to the Republican Department of Revenue. (13) Permit the governor to audit the auditor general's records. (14) Allow the Department of Public Assistance to discontinue providing a pint of milk daily to children under 16 years of indigent parents. (15) Increase the minimum number of benefit weeks for unemployment compensation recipients from three to seven.

(16) Reduce the tax on the gross receipts of utilities. (17) Continue for another two years the cent-a-gallon "emergency" tax on gasoline. (18) Exempt manufacturers from paying the five per cent capital stock tax. Also awaiting Governor Martin's signature were the $243,462,000 general fund appropriation to pay the state government's operating expenses during the next biennium starting June 1; the $88,500,000 biennial relief appropriation; the $8,000,000 appropriation for second class township highway maintenance; the $9,000,000 allocation to the Department of Property and Supplies to repair state institutions; the $478,000 appropriation for the Commerce Department; and two bills appropriating a total of $9,267,925 for state-aided homes and hospitals.

Seadrome Air Route Permit Asked Of U. S.

Penna. Central Airlines Proposes "Seadromes" In Ocean For Plane Stopovers

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Pennsylvania Central Airlines on Tuesday filed an application with the Civil Aeronautics board for permission to establish a "seadrome" air route between the United States and Great Britain by using huge floating steel islands spaced at 800-mile intervals across the Atlantic.

The project "will give America a vital air link in that ocean and provide the shortest, fastest and most economic airway route between this country and Europe," according to C. Bedford Monro, president of the air line.

The chain of huge sea-anchored islands, and the resultant economy of air operation, Monro added, will bring European vacation travel within the reach of great numbers of Americans after the war.

Monro said his company has filed for permission to fly the seadrome route, but the seadrome facilities would be made available to all airline companies and all nations that qualify.

The proposal for man-made islands spanning the turbulent Atlantic in a great over-sea air path has the romantic aura of a Jules Verne creation.

Monro, however, insisted that the project was now imminently practical because of the progress of science. He said the airdromes would enable

U. S. Army Pilot And Three British Soldiers Take 93

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 12.—The war department today disclosed how First Lt. John A. Carey, U. S. Army pilot, of Newport News, Va., and three British soldiers captured 93 prisoners in North Africa last Saturday because three Germans spotted an Italian camp for them.

The incident began when Lt. Carey was forced down in enemy territory following a heavy raid on Axis bases. Sighting three German soldiers, he started running. At a bend in the road, however, he met three British "tommies" on a gun carrier.

Together, they captured the Germans. As haughty members of the famed German Goering Regiment, the Nazis were greatly annoyed. "Just a little way beyond this hill you'll find a lot of Italians," they said. "Go get them."

Armed with tommy gun, Lt. Carey accompanied the British soldiers to the hostile camp where 90 Italians were "willingly taken prisoners". All captives were delivered to Tunis.

URGES OBSERVANCE OF TWO HOLIDAYS ON SUNDAY IN 1943

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 12 — WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson today urged that the traditional civic observances of Memorial Day and Independence Day be held on Sunday this year in order to maintain full war production schedules.

"The capture of Bizerte and Tunis shows that the weight of United Nations total war effort is bringing magnificent results on the field of battle," Nelson said. "We must work all the harder to take full advantage of the victories that the fighting men of our country and our Allies are winning."

The habit of shifting the weight of the body to one side when standing should be corrected early in life, as it favors the development of spinal curvature.

On Guard

It's two in the morning. Most of the city is asleep, but in the telephone central office, lights are always burning.

Test men, working with their amazing "detector apparatus," are checking every mile of telephone wire. Switchmen are busy inspecting all the complicated central office equipment, "looking for trouble" before it troubles you.

Day and night this work goes on. For war calls must go through and the whole war effort requires dependable telephone service.

Never has the work of trained telephone men and women been so vital to America as it is today.

Three Are Dead In Plant Blast

Explosion In Chemical Plant
At Charleston, W. Va.,
On Tuesday Afternoon

(International News Service)
CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 12.—Three men were dead today and 12 others injured as a result of a sudden explosion which rocked the four-story chemical building of the Carbide and Carbon Chemical Corporation here yesterday and partially destroyed it.

Company officials identified the dead as Robert Henson, 33, foreman, and Earl Latham, 32, operator, both of Charleston, and Albert S. Lawrence, 34, a rigger in the maintenance department, of adjacent St. Albans.

The dozen injured workmen were removed to hospitals and a plant spokesman declared all other employees in the building at the time of the blast were accounted for and safe.

Superintendent W. K. Turner said the explosion was due to the "failure of a reaction vessel, followed by a release of gases which quickly ignited."

The plant is located on Blaine Island and is surrounded by the Kanawha river. Fire broke out after the explosion and it required three hours to bring the flames, which shot up several hundred feet into the air, under control.

BUTTER

Habit is perhaps the strongest thing in the world. Americans have the habit of eating butter with bread. The people of many other countries do not have this habit.

Butter contains two things, fat and vitamins. We can get along without the fat pretty well. But too many of us are too fat. Butter scarcity may do away with some of the surplus.

The vitamin is more important. To make up for it we need to use more of some other things.

Good sources of vitamin A are apricots, green vegetables, eggs, yellow vegetables, fish liver oil, beef, liver and milk.

Cooking does no harm to vitamin A. Good bye to the old bay window.

There is something in cream and butter which helps children to grow. See that they get their share of milk and butter.

'Wave' 'Bops Him' As Man Seeks To Pass Guard

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 12.—A WAVE who whacked a would-be intruder at the naval training station for women's reserves in the Bronx was honored today.

She is Apprentice Seaman Audrey P. Roberts of Miami, Fla., and received a citation for subduing two men who tried to push their way into the training station grounds while she was on guard duty.

Miss Roberts described her experience in less official language than that used in the official navy citation.

"I bopped him," Miss Roberts said exhibiting a billy the girl guards carry as arms. She also chased the other intruder and sounded the alarm bringing help from marine guards stationed nearby.

World Federation Must Have Support Of U. S. To Survive

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—A world federation for the preservation of peace cannot be perfected nor can it survive unless supported by the United States, U. S. Supreme Court Justice Wiley Rutledge declared Tuesday in a speech read to the 23rd annual convention of the American Law Institute.

The larger political units of the world cannot survive permanently "resting in their own strength," asserted the newest member of the nation's highest tribunal.

"The very burden of perpetual armament required to maintain national freedom would destroy individual liberty," Justice Rutledge said. He added:

"We, too, cannot keep the peace, as I believe we have learned by keeping it for ourselves alone."

"Our task is not merely to win the peace at arms and declare it. Beyond that we must work to see that the end of this war is not merely the beginning of another, but is rather the starting point for a continuous effort which will create and maintain a structure of law for the nations of the world."

"At bottom the problem is for ourselves to solve, for without us others cannot solve it."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up."

Will Have Roles In School Play

Elizabeth Burton Jane Dietterle

Two newcomers to the high school stage in Friday's public performance of "Stage Door" by members of the dramatics class are Elizabeth Burton and Jane Kathryn Dietterle.

Both girls belong to the bevy of attractive actresses who live at a cheap New York boarding house which dignifies and identifies itself as the Footlights Club, and whose living room forms the setting for all three acts of the play. Romance, aspiring struggles, success, failure and even suicide take hold of the youthful figures that move in and out of the common room of the Footlights Club. The audience sits in on the eternal human comedy in a considerable variety of aspects.

Elizabeth and Jane have similar tastes in their club activities at high school. They both have memberships in the highly strenuous Girl Reserves, Junior ROTC, and Girls Athletic Club. Elizabeth adds an academic honorary club, Seneca Romanus.

Elizabeth Burton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burton of Euclid avenue. Jane Dietterle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dietterle of Edgewood avenue.

O. W. I. Not Seeking Any Blond Hair For War Purposes

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—"Who touches a hair of your gray head..." Shades of "Stonewall" Jackson!

The August Office of War Information tore a page out of history today to protect the golden tresses of womanhood.

Solemnly and with much fervor, the OWI announced that it definitely does not want 22-inch strands of blonde hair "untouched by permanent waves or curling irons."

Even as the doughy southern general safeguarded the locks of Barbara Fritchie, Director Elmer Davis' information agency appeals to husbands everywhere not to go around snipping off the wife's long blonde curls in the mistaken impression that they are aiding the war effort.

OWI has received a stream of parcels containing everything from single strands to sizeable handfuls since an erroneous report circulated to the effect that it wanted the aforementioned blonde hair for war production purposes.

Stumped by how to dispose of the contributions already received, OWI diligently searched the countryside and found that the Washington institute of technology, of College Park, Md., manufacturer of weather instruments, is eager to get a limited amount of blonde hair. It has a war contract.

For correct length—22 inch strands—the institution pays $1 an ounce in war stamps only the OWI discovered. Letters and hair already received by OWI have been turned over to the institution and the donors will be informed by it whether the hair meets its specifications.

Former Local Printer Retires

VICTORY GARDEN NOTES

(By LEWIS C. DAYTON)
(County Farm Agent)

ROOT MAGGOTS

Cabbage, cauliflower, radish and similar kinds of plants are seriously damaged, stunted or entirely destroyed by maggots working in the roots of the plants. A fly lays eggs in the soil near the base of cabbage and cauliflower soon after the plants are set in the garden. Maggots that hatch from these eggs feed on the roots, causing the plants to die.

The damage may be avoided by placing a square or circular disk made of tar roofing paper flat on the ground about the plant. This tar paper disk should be three or four inches in diameter with a quarter-inch hole cut in the center for the stem to go through. In addition cut a slit in the disk from the outer edge to the center hole so that it can be slipped on the stalk. In placing the disk, flatten it to the soil surface.

Another standard remedy is to pour a half-cup of corrosive sublimate solution on the soil around each plant four or five days after the plants are set in the garden or in the field. Two more applications should be given at weekly intervals. Calomel (three ounces mixed with three pounds of flour or hydrated lime) when dusted on the ground around the plants gives good protection. Both of these materials are deadly poisons and must be handled carefully.

The wrapping of the stalks with newspaper strips as suggested for cutworms often gives good protection from maggot attacks.

Radishes may be protected by growing them under a cheesecloth screen or by treating the ground along the row with the corrosive sublimate solution at the rate of one-half gallon to 15 feet of row.

* WONDER ABOUT BILL

Candidates for the office of county commissioner are wondering just now what has happened to House

JAIL LIST DOWN

Deputy Sheriff Tommy O'Brien is troubled with a lack of guests in his custody again. The total is down to 17 men and one woman. Most of them are on the city side of the jail, and Tuesday morning one remaining prisoner in the county side of the jail sent word out he would like a lift in shaking bed sheets.

FIFTY-FIVE LAWYERS

The roster of the Lawrence County Bar Association shows 73 attorneys practicing at this bar. The figure doesn't indicate how many are actually practicing here, and because we thought you'd like to know, we checked it Tuesday.

Of the 73, seven are in the armed forces. Nine more are either inactive or are not in the city at the present time. Of the nine, one is in the P. B. I. The two judges are listed on the bar roster but they practice no law.

Of the 55, many have practiced for a long time. The dean of the bar association is former Judge J. Norman Martin, who was admitted to practice September 27, 1883. His professional career will be 60 years of age this September.

The first 10 names listed were all admitted before 1900. Charles E. Mehard, who is not practicing now, was admitted December 13, 1893; Frank A. Hoyer, March 19, 1894; E. M. Underwood, June 4, 1894; W. J. McCaslin, November 17, 1894; Joseph W. Humphrey, June 3, 1896; Richard P. Dana, June 19, 1897; H. A. Wilkinson, January 3, 1898; Harvey E. Martin, December 7, 1898; and George T. Weingartner, March 15, 1899.

CEILING PRICES ARE EFFECTIVE NEXT MONDAY

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The complete nation-wide list of cents-per-pound retail prices on beef, veal, lamb and mutton was issued today by OPA as part of its program to shift the major burden of price enforcement to the consumer and cut food costs five per cent by air-tight observance of ceilings.

The new ceilings, effective next Monday throughout the United States, will reduce in some instances the prices charged by independent stores, which sell from 53 to 55 per cent of the nation's meat, but actually are from five to 10 per cent higher than current prices in many chain outlets.

However, on June 1, a 10 per cent "roll back" is scheduled to become effective on all meats, including pork, which has been under dollars-and-cents maximums since April 1, through the payment of government subsidies to meat packers and processors.

In the meantime, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown "requested" chain stores to continue to observe their customarily lower margins and maintain prices at a minimum of 10 per cent under the flat ceilings established by the new regulation. He was reported to have received assurances of co-operation.

Principal effect of today's announcement will be to inform consumers and sellers alike of the exact legal price in cents-per-pound for approximately 95 cuts of beef, veal, lamb and mutton and provide the housewife with protection against illegal overcharges and profiteering.

MAJOR A. G. MOORE SPEAKS TO LIONS

Tells Of Army Life At Shenango Replacement Camp Where He Is Stationed

Not only are the men in Uncle Sam's army in this war better trained than the men of 1917-18, but they have far superior weapons, Major Althus G. Moore, of the provost marshal's office at the Shenango Replacement Center, told New Castle Lions Tuesday.

Major Moore gave an interesting talk which was much enjoyed by his audience. He told of the disciplinary measures which are taken at the camp, in which department he is naturally much interested. Men are not hounded for minor infractions but any willful acts on their part bring punishment which the crime merits, he stated.

He said that 87 per cent of the men in the army are buying war bonds, some of them far beyond the amount they are receiving as soldiers; 96 per cent of the officers are buying bonds, and 96 per cent of the soldiers carry life insurance, as a result of the liberal provisions Uncle Sam has made for them.

He stated that there is very little waste in the armed forces, despite stories to the contrary. Even waste paper is saved, Major Moore said. He told of shipping 12 carloads of waste cardboard from Shenango just the other day. Even old shoes are salvaged, he stated.

The final total in the bond sale drive was $291,582. It was announced, with Capt. James A. Leslie's team coming in first in the final standing. G. Earl Williams' team was second, Harry Helmick's team third, and Don Wilson's team fourth. The latter group will have to eat soup next week as a result.

Guests yesterday were: Gerald H. Fouse and Seaman First Class Richard W. Buchanan.

Fish Retail Prices Will Be Lowered

Other Steps Being Taken By O. P. A. To Roll Back Cost Of Living

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 12.—The OPA today was moving speedily to develop price ceilings on fresh fish which reportedly will roll back retail prices as much as 50 per cent.

Another step in its program to cut back the cost of living, the OPA ceilings will halt soaring retail prices of fish which more people are turning to as a substitute for rationed meat. The only present ceilings on fresh fish are those on several varieties of tuna.

Concerned over skyrocketing prices on the fish market, OPA officials have been conducting a survey in the matter and it is hoped that the new ceilings will be ready shortly.

Meanwhile, other developments on the price front were:

1. The differential of 75 cents a hundredweight in favor of selected seed potatoes over maximum prices for table stock was removed by the OPA which at the same time lifted the prohibition against the sale of the selected seed potatoes for human consumption. The prohibition against sale of certified seed potatoes for human consumption still stands. This action was taken because the end of the planting season is approaching and it will result in more potatoes for regular consumers.

2. Specific maximum prices were established at manufacturer, wholesale and retail levels for a new war alarm clock to be sold to consumers for not more than $1.65. Production of the clock was recently authorized by the war production board.

3. Another step in simplifying procedures was taken when the OPA announced that applications for adjustments and petitions for amendments of price regulations no longer need to be sworn to or affirmed.

Majors Resume Play After Two-Day Layoff

Schedule Shift To Show Where Flag Contenders Are Headed This Season

Eastern (A. L.) Clubs Out West; West (N. L.) Nines Are In East

YANKS DODGERS CURRENT LEADERS

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 12.—For the first time this baseball season the eastern American League clubs are out west and the western National League clubs are in the east. Out of this migration will come some kind of a line on just where the various contenders are headed, not that anything will be in the least conclusive. The season still have five months to go—five months that will get tougher and tougher as summer's sun begins to bear down.

However, the New York Yankees, who just about broke the backs of the Boston Red Sox by taking seven of the eight games played by those two clubs, will get a chance to take the Cleveland Indians apart, or vice versa, for the first time in the American League, and in the National the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have bolstered their standings with six out of nine over the Phillies, will make their initial stand against the St. Louis Cardinals during the present swing.

Today's Card

Today's schedule, after a two-day layoff in both circuits was:
American League—New York at Chicago, Boston at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Detroit, and Washington at Cleveland, the latter a night tilt.
National League—Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, St. Louis at Boston, Cincinnati at Philadelphia and Chicago at New York.

As the Yanks hit the west their bulge over the second place Indians was two full games and the Dodgers held the same edge on the Cardinals as the latter came into the east—all of which makes for some interesting baseball at the start of the "aces." The real contenders are out in front.

One of the most interesting developments is the pace the Yanks are travelling as they make their first western swing. They've won 13 out of 18 against the eastern clubs and look just as tough as nearly everybody said they would be at the start of the campaign.

They already have run up a seven game lead on the last place Red Sox, while over in the National the Dodgers have won 12 out of 18 and lead the cellar-dwelling Giants by 5½.

However, it seems fairly evident on the basis of those very early returns that there is little likelihood of a dark horse popping up. The season is going to go pretty much to form despite all the many changes that have made this the least predictable of all seasons.

New Ball Helps

Whether it will be as big a pitcher's year as everyone thought at the start is still problematical. The hitters are doing fair now, with that new ball to carry much of the weight in the argument. Some of the hitters are screaming their heads off, saying the ball has been livened up, but still is soft and unable to withstand a smack without going out of shape. Others insist the ball is just right.

The manufacturers meantime are doing their best to please everybody—a neat trick for anybody other than a magician to perform

All Cub Trades Seem To Fizzle

Walsh Neatly Lists Various Deals That Lay Monumental Eggs

LOU NOVIKOFF ON SWAP LIST

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, May 12.—There being no reason needlessly to alarm the constituents, the Chicago Cubs went all the way to New York before announcing that they were going to solve everything.

They were, they said, about to negotiate a trade for Lou Novikoff, the crass materialist who does not want the $9.62 weekly raise offered him for hitting 300 last year. So they're going to trade the loafer to any one of four clubs, just to show him they're not men to be trifled with.

"Can anybody," we demanded, at this point, "remember a trade where the Cubs got the better of it?"

Poor Traders
They've been so flagrantly and consistently wrong, in fact, that one feels almost a sense of indecency in mentioning it, as though one were the sort who bandies snide gossip in low company and invariably shoots his pleasant before the rise. Nonetheless, we've got to mention that all they now have to show for this is Claude Passeau, Lon Warneke and a club that's in seventh place.

LOU NOVIKOFF FORGOTTEN MAN

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 12.—Lou Novikoff today is the forgotten man so far as baseball is concerned.

Cub General Manager Jimmy Gallagher reports that he hasn't had a nibble for the "Mad Russian" since last December when Branch Rickey offered to exchange Joe Medwick for the colorful Cub hitter.

Gallagher is pessimistic about any further chances of trading his suspended hold-out.

"We're in seventh place," he said, but nobody would help us. Who would give the Cubs anything, even if they could?"

Warneke, of course, had to be gotten back from St. Louis after being sent there for Rip Collins and Leroy Parmelee, neither of whom is now in baseball insofar as we know.

Passeau came here from the Phillies for a couple of stuffed bosoms and Kirby Higbee, who promptly went amok and did not stop until he'd helped pitch the Dodgers into the 1941 championship.

There was the time, too, when the Cubs simply had to have Don Hurst, first baseman. So they sent the Phillies Dolph Camilli, who's still a first baseman. So good, that he was named the league's most valuable player two years ago.

As for Hurst, he disappeared hurriedly, and without happily, and hasn't been heard of from in considerable number of years. The Cubs also had to have Chuck Klein from the Phillies.

They were warned that he wouldn't prosper at Wrigley Field, where it seems his visiting batting average had been pretty pale and insipid. But they had to have him anyhow—possibly because, in our impression, they'd originally "had" him in the minor leagues.

That Dean Prank
If we're wrong about that, you can bring action before the Bureau of Weights and Measures, but Klein anyhow wasn't even a regular here and, in time, had to be given back to the Phillies; this time, because the Cubs simply had to have Pitcher Curt Davis. But he also laid a monumental egg, and was allowed to figure in the notorious Dizzy Dean $165,000 prank, which common decency forbids us to further mention in any detail.

Davis then wound up helping to pitch the Dodgers into that same pennant that Kirby Higbee helped pitch them into.

Then there's Larry French, who went to Brooklyn for the waiver price and promptly won 12 games before he lost any. And Bill Hermann who went to Brooklyn for Charley Gilbert (of all people, not to forget Bill Jurgens going to the Giants for Dick Bartell, the result being that both are now with the Giants. But why go on?

Sports Ramblings

Sports Bulletin Board:---

Of all things, date of a sports event is playing a hand in a local accident case! As I prepared to peek away today's miscellany, Attorney --- posed this question, "Who did Joe Louis fight prior to entering the army? Where, when and at about what time did the fight end?" My file shows that the Bomber blasted Ample Bud Baer on Fri., Jan. 9, 1942. My legal friend explained that his client does not remember the exact date of the mishap but recalls that "he was hurt while listening to Louis' farewell fight before entering the armed services." Baer was stretched in the first, so the battle was over well before 10:30.

Cpl. Alexander Pasarella, Cpl. Vince Audino and Pfc. Fred Maciarello, localities stationed with the U. S. Marines in Philly, write that they were among the lucky and amazed spectators who saw the Phillies win a twin bill Sunday. "Jewie" Coen will be active in the City Baseball league again this season. The veteran twirler, who once beat the Pittsburgh Pirates by using a small piece of sand paper, will serve as co-manager of the Croton A. C. "Hop" Colaiuda will share half of the headaches.

Short touches:—There's nothing too good for Count Fleet. The Derby-Preakness king munches away at hot that costs $42 a ton. A. L. is an even more expensive, costing Owner Hertz $55 a ton. Vic Danilov, Farrell's crack cager, has enrolled at Penn State. He hopes to be a journalist. Since donning the New York Yanks' uniform, Spud Chandler, the successful twirler, has slapped out seven homers.

And Bobo Newsum, now a refined Brooklyn Dodgerite, registered 29 strikeouts in his first three tilts. Joe Oregano among the last members of the "choke hitter" clan, has received more than 10 free tickets to first. Old Skipper McKechnie of Cincy has led his Rhinelanders to 443 victories against 320 losses for a .581 mark in five seasons. James Rufus Gentry does not want to graduate into the majors. The Buffalo hurler, who recently tossed a no-hitter against Newark, says he's playing because that's what he likes to do and doesn't care where he does it.

Killefer Returns As Philly Scout

(International News Service)

MERE MATTER OF 20 WINS

THAT'S a pretty important left arm above. It belongs to Thornton "Lefty" Lee, 35-year-old pitcher of the Chicago White Sox. Importance, at the moment, is whether Lee's left arm is still lame enough to prevent him from fooling American league batters the way he did in 1941, when he won 22 games for the Sox. Last season, Lee could win but two games. Manager Jimmy Dykes could use 20 more victories this season. (International)

Greco Menace To Lightweights

Canadian Sensation On Heels Of Beau Jack And Sammy Angott

GRECO'S LATEST VICTIM IS YOUNG

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 12.—A nimble, quick-triggered boy from Canada—Johnny Greco—is making his bid for the lightweight championship of the world right now. He's not much according to the experts, but he's confusing these same experts with a punch that should have been born in the golden age of sports.

Greco made his debut in New York as a well-toiled semi-finalist when he paralyzed Bill Speary with a right hand in the first round.

Garden Attraction
Greco's fortune leaped to a new high, Mike Jacobs closed his promotional tentacles about the Canadian, and Greco was made as a Garden attraction. However, inasmuch as Greco was one of the main features of the Canadian army, Uncle Mike was hampered.

Soon after Mike's recognition of Greco, a deal illustrative of the Broadway technique was pushed through—almost.

To a fund for army athletic equipment, Jacobs "offered" to donate 10 percent of the Greco-Cleo Shans battle, or $5,000, whichever was the greater. The fact was also forwarded by the Jacobs ballyhooing office that Greco was fighting for nothing.

On the surface, this seemed to be a noble move on the part of Jacobs. That is, until the boys on the press front figured quickly that Greco would make $5,000 out of that fight, or at least 10 percent of the purse. Therefore, it was Greco who was donating to the army athletic fund, and not our Dear Uncle Mike.

The upshot of the whole business was that the army athletic fund got a great deal out of the Greco-Shans deal. The party was on Greco, not Mike.

Young Latest Victim
Greco has been knocking men down and out in the quickest time possible. A couple of nights ago Greco beat out a clearly-fashioned 10-round decision over Terry Young, a very tough boy. Which is what Greco has been doing all along, "benefit deals" or none.

Right now, there are only a few men upon whom Jacobs can depend for a good gate. Greco is one of them. There is no doubt that Greco can insert himself forcefully enough into the lightweight picture to sign his own ticket. And when he does, two people can start praying for their own tickets. Beau Jack, New York commission titlist, and Sammy Angott, the "unofficial" lightweight king.

On the surface, this seemed to be a noble move on the part of Jacobs. That is, until the boys on the press front figured quickly that Greco would make $5,000 out of that fight, or at least 10 percent of the purse. Therefore, it was Greco who was donating to the army athletic fund, and not our Dear Uncle Mike.

Football Rams Not On Market

Owners Plan Keeping Franchise For Long Time, Representative States

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, May 12.—Rumors of a pending sale of the Cleveland Rams of the National football league were ended today by a statement from Charles F. "Chile" Walsh, the coach, who declared the club was not on the market and was unlikely to be for a long time.

"The Cleveland franchise is not for sale," Walsh said. "The present owners plan to be in the league for a long time and anyone making an offer is only wasting his time."

Acts For Owners
Walsh, who was engaged as coach only a short time before the Rams obtained permission to withdraw from the league for the 1943 season, now is acting as the civilian representative of the owners, Lieut. Dan Reeves and Maj. Fred Lev, Jr., who are in the army air force.

Possibility that the franchise might be transferred was suggested when Ted Collins, manager of Kate Smith, was quoted in Los Angeles as saying he had made an offer and expected an answer soon.

Walsh made his statement after talking by long distance telephone with Lieut. Reeves, who is stationed at Rome, N. Y. He quoted Lieut. Reeves as saying he and Maj. Lev were not interested in "offers of any kind."

Garden State Meet To Start On July 7

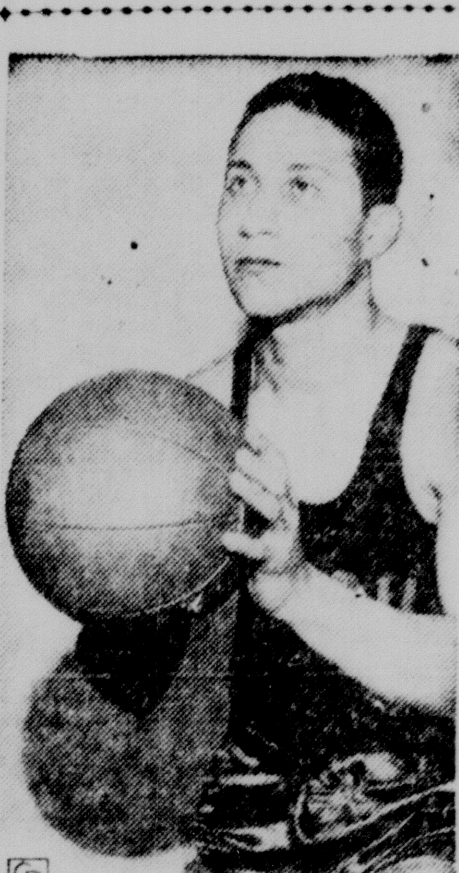

(International News Service)
TRENTON, N. J., May 12.—A 50-day horse-racing meeting will get underway July 7 at Garden State park near Camden, despite two vacancies on the four-member state racing commission.

This assurance was made public when Gov. Charles Edison announced an opinion by Attorney-General David T. Wilentz today, although the commission no longer has a quorum, appointment of the track officials was made before one commission member died and another resigned and therefore could conduct the meeting.

Tennis Dropped By Westminster

Titan Racquetters Can't Find District Opponents So They Give Up

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 12.—Unable to schedule any meets, the Westminster tennis team has decided to call it quits this spring.

Unlike other district colleges, Westminster voted to continue with tennis and permitted coeds to try out for the squad for the first time in the school's history.

Twenty-six Prospects
Thirteen freshmen, seven girls and six boys, reported to the initial meeting of the tennis candidates. From last season only lettermen Bob Montague, Atlanta, Ga., senior, and Keith Kingsbury, Booneville, N. Y., junior, remained. The Titans had several meets with district competition at the beginning of the year, but the opponents cancelled at the last moments because of lack of player material.

Three Home Run Kings Now Sport Milwaukee Colors
Brewers' Lineup Includes Ted Norbert, Merv Connors, Willis Norman

If the Milwaukee Brewers don't bat the home run honors of the American Association this season the failure can't be blamed on lack of slugging talent. The Brewers have three home run kings of 1942 in their lineup.

Hits 28 Homers
Topping the list is outfielder Ted Norbert who led the Pacific Coast loop last summer with 28 round-trippers. In addition, he was the circuit's leading batter with 378.

Merv Connors, holding down first base for the Brewers was the 1942 Babe Ruth of the Texas League, collecting 27 homers.

Rounding out the trio is outfielder Willis Norman, last year with Milwaukee, who set the American Association pace with 24 four-base blasts.

Opposing pitchers get very little opportunity to take a breather when the Brewers are at bat.

City-County Loop To Meet Tonight

City-County Independent Baseball league officers and managers will hold an important meeting in Carm DeLoane's, 112 West Washington street, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Teams seeking franchises must send representatives to the session.

GETS REAL "BIRDIE"
GROVE CITY, May 12.—First golfing oddity of the local season is credited to C. H. Jordan, whose tee shot on No. 6 at the Country Club struck and killed a duck resting on the lake bordering the fairway. The incident rivals the literal "birdie" scored by the club president, Wendell August, last season, when his drive killed a blackbird in mid-air.

Bessemer High Athletes Feted; Thorn Speaker

Grove City College Athletics Director Delivers Inspirational Address

CARL MONTGOMERY IS TOASTMASTER

Bessemer high celebrated a most successful athletic season on Tuesday night with a banquet in Bessemer Presbyterian church.

Members of the football-basketball squads, feature coaches, lettermen and Bessemer-Maitland township school directors, gathered round for one of the pleasant fetes staged in several years.

Thorn Main Speaker
An inspirational talk was given by Athletic Director Robert A. Thorn, of Grove City college. He dwelled upon the fact that spirit and not physique makes a good soldier. He maintained that athletes are important in preparing a boy for future service whether as a soldier or in another capacity.

Burgess Carl Montgomery was an efficient toastmaster who introduced the following speakers:

Other Speakers
Merle L. Moses, president of Bessemer Board of Education, John Verlotto, president of Mahoning Township Board of Education, Coach Joe Weresak, Foster McGarvey, assistant coach, Bob Navarra and John Grubbs, football-basketball captains, A. J. Capozzuto, East Liverpool high coach, and former Bessemer mentor, and Gerald Nord, principal of Ben Franklin junior high and former Bessemer principal.

The principal speaker was introduced by Chandler McMillan, supervising principal of Bessemer school.

The banquet marked the culmination of a most successful season. The football team won the Lawrence County Class B championship and copped five out of six contests in running up on undefeated season. The Cementers held Erie East to a 6-6 tie under the Erie lights. In basketball, the Bessemerites were in the thick of the Section 21 race throughout and muffed winning the crown because they were unable to subvert New Wilmington, winner of the Class B WPAL crown.

The football-basketball schedules for 1943-44 are nearly complete and boys who return are hopeful that they will be as successful as the athletes who sported Bessemer's colors during the past campaign.

Reports Of Mass Evacuations From Italian Coast Area

German Propaganda Agency Says Hitler Transfers Headquarters From Red Front

By LOWELL BENNETT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 12.—Reports of mass Italian evacuations from endangered coastal areas flowed into London today as feverish activity in every area of the Nazi-occupied continent betrayed grim fears of an early Allied invasion.

The German propaganda agency DNB broadcast a report that Hitler has transferred his headquarters at least temporarily from the Russian front to the west.

Reporting from "an unspecified place in the west," DNB said that Hitler had received from Albert Speer, the fortifications expert who succeeded the late Fritz Todt, builder of the Siegfried Line, a full report on "construction of the Atlantic wall."

The inference was that Hitler had inspected the fortifications. Whether or not he came away satisfied was not mentioned in the broadcast.

Simultaneously, Axis-inspired reports from Cairo said that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, now revealed to have pulled out of Tunisia two months ago, had been given the task of preparing the defenses of Greece, Crete and the Dodecanese Islands against invasion. "Large-scale anti-invasion exercises" were held in Crete last month, these reports said.

Reports of the Italian evacuations were understandable in view of previous indications that a state of siege had been proclaimed in Calabria and extended over all south Italy. Some dispatches published in London spoke of grave official Italian concern over population panic and there were many indications of public non-co-operation with anti-invasion defense measures.

Axis propagandists, meanwhile, sought to minimize importance of the Allied victory in Tunisia. German newspapers, as quoted by the Moscow radio, said this development had been discounted in advance, and there was a shower of praise for Rommel and his "masterly retreat."

Plan Hearings On Gas Situation In Western Penna.

Further airing of the gasoline question in Western Pennsylvania will soon be had in Washington when the Federal petroleum committee will hold hearings. In a telegram to Mayor Charles E. Meyer, Congressman Samuel A. Weiss has asked for a gasoline producer from this district to appear at the hearing and testify.

The telegram has been turned over to Roger Jewett, of the Greater New Castle Association for whatever action is thought proper. It seems unlikely that a witness will go from New Castle or the county.

Says Birth Control Must Be Practiced

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 12.—There can be no hope of lasting world peace until "rational birth control" becomes widespread and practiced all over the world, in the opinion of Dr. Henry Pratt Fairchild, sociologist and economist.

Dr. Fairchild told the thirteenth annual meeting of the Maternal Health Center last night that "there is no hope for international peace until nations learn how to control the growth of their populations and keep them within the boundaries of their own resources."

Legion Post Hears Heroes Of Pacific At Meeting Tuesday

Bob Goettle And Gerald Hanna Describe Action In Battles Against Japs

Two youthful heroes of the fighting in the Pacific area, who are back home here on furlough, were guests of the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, at its meeting in the Legion Home, Tuesday evening.

They were Bob Goettle, who was stationed aboard the U.S.S. San Juan, flagship of Admiral Halsey, and who saw action in several intense sea battles against the Japs, in which the American forces acquitted themselves nobly; and Gerald Hanna, U. S. Marines, who fought at Guadalcanal.

Goettle's ship helped protect the landing of the Marines at Guadalcanal, in which action young Hanna took part. The latter stated that despite the heroic efforts of the U. S. Naval forces, four transports loaded with Japs were able to land after the action had started in Guadalcanal, which fact delayed the final capture of the Island. He paid tribute to the fine support of the Naval forces, however, which he stated played a big part in the defeat of the Japs there.

James Clause, who was recently discharged from service, also spoke on life in the army.

The Post voted to sponsor the observance of Flag Day here on June 14, the matter being brought to their attention by Fred L. Rantz, vice president of the National Flag Day Association, an organization devoted to recognition for our national banner.

The post discussed plans for Memorial Day, and other activities and voted a contribution to the Memorial rose garden which is proposed for the city park across from the Jameson Memorial hospital on West Leasure avenue.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

THEY'LL tell you at Ship's Service Departments how much ice-cold Coca-Cola means to the men in refreshment, in enjoyment and in morale. You read and hear similar things every day.

When people feel about a soft drink that way it's got something special. Coca-Cola has. A taste all its own. A drink that adds refreshment to thirst-quenching.

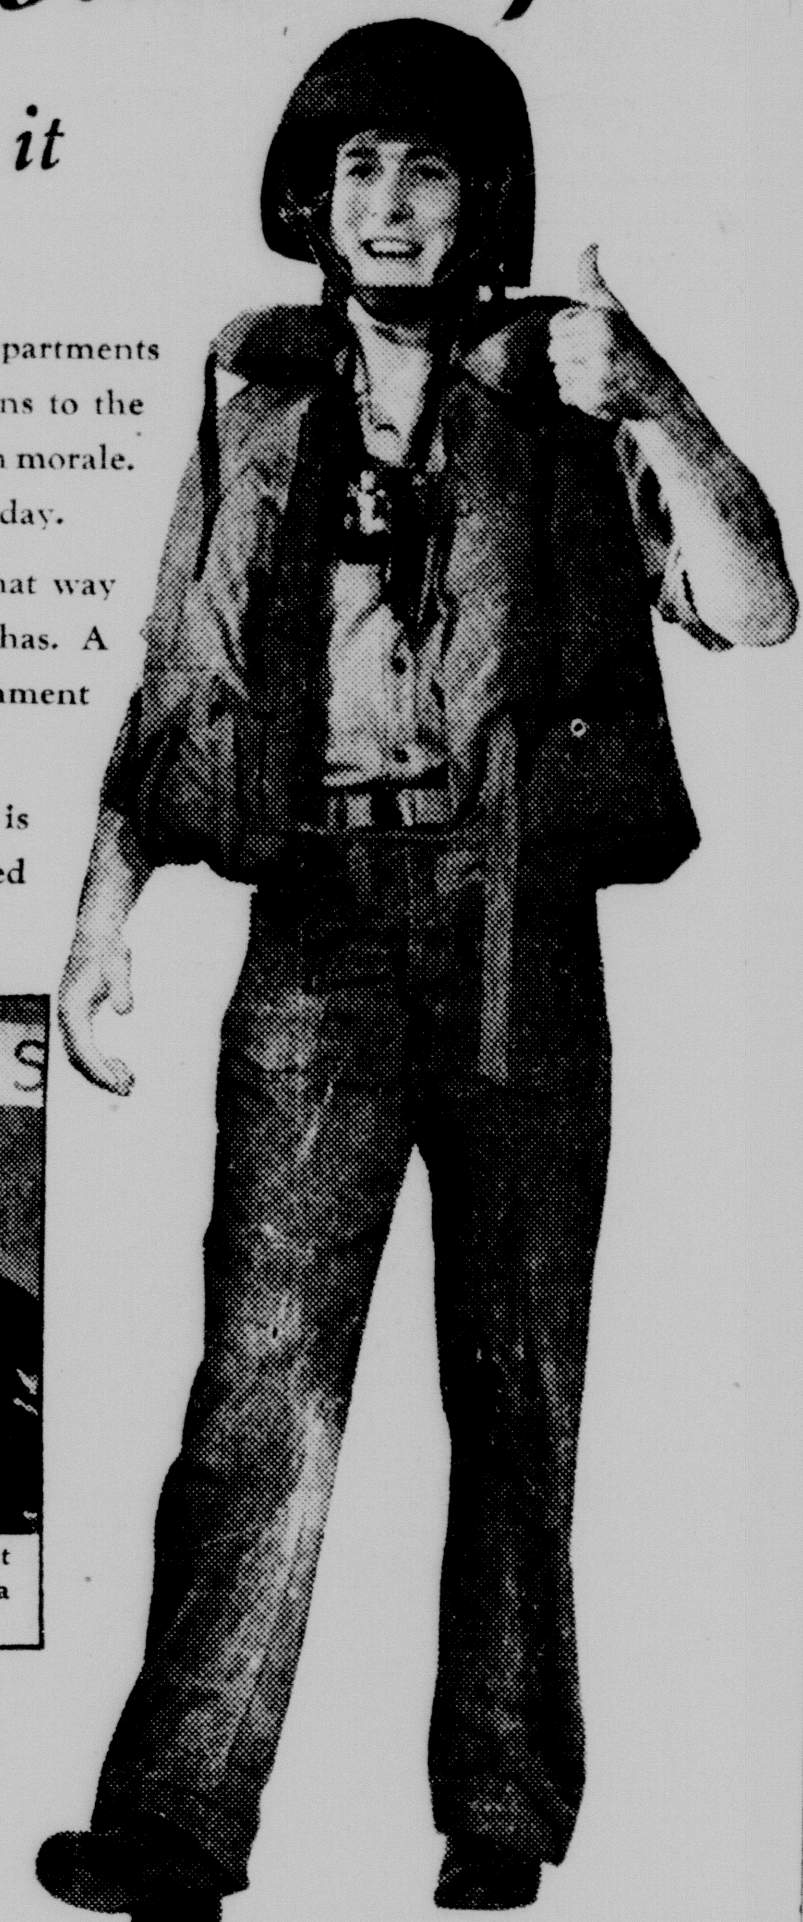

Truly, the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself . . . the trade-marked product of The Coca-Cola Company.

A Coke and a hot dog! Everywhere you see that combination, you see something that is America in foreign lands!

5¢
The best is always the better buy!

Although war has changed and disrupted so many things in their lives, our fighting forces overseas are so often delighted to find in far-off places an old familiar friend...Coca-Cola...being bottled in Allied Nations all over the globe, just as it is at home.

AUTO DRIVING OF YOUTHS PREPARED THEM FOR TANKS

Youths Quickly Develop Skill In Tank And Armored Warfare

(International News Service) FORT KNOX, Ky., May 12—Those two cars in every American garage in the good old days are a vital factor today in American mastery of tank and armored warfare.

In the opinion of Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott, commanding general of the armored force replacement training center at Fort Knox, American men make the best armored warfare soldiers in the world "Because by the time they're grown, they've all had the opportunity to wear out three or four Fords."

With this mechanical background plus intensive training at Fort Knox, headquarters of the armored force of tanks and supporting weapons, the general is turning out 13,500 tough armored force warriors every 15 weeks.

But these particular trainees are only part of the post complement of 55,000 men either teaching or being trained for tank warfare at Fort Knox, a group of newspaper correspondents learned on a crowded one-day tour which is part of a coast-to-coast study of war installations under war department auspices.

If the two cars in every garage are paying off in war dividends, America's public school education system is paying double in the opinion of Gen. Scott.

Make Best Soldiers

"Old Scotty" is convinced by experience that American boys under 20 with a high school education make ideal soldiers.

"Give me kids under 20!" declared the general. "The younger they are, the better. And let me have 'em with a high school education. I don't have trouble with one high school boy out of a thousand. It's the uneducated boy who's the problem child, the kid whose mother never made him go to school and who has never belonged to a church. He's the one you have trouble with."

Gen. Scott estimated that "You have to lick about 25 percent into shape." The others, "Once you jolt 'em out of their civilian rut, take to training like ducks to water." The general jolts trainees out of their civilian ruts and "complacency" with a tough "battle indoctrination course, in which he uses live ammunition to teach boys to take care of themselves under actual battle conditions.

Three of those courses he demonstrated to correspondents. In the first, trainees crawled 475 yards over a simulated battle field while mines exploded all around them and a hail of machine gun bullets whizzed 30 inches above their helmeted heads.

In the second, trainees, in a grim demonstration of street fighting from house to house, captured a village called Little Tokyo. In the third, an impressive sham battle, an American reinforced armored division saved Louisville from the assaults of a German invasion threat. More than 135 vehicles, ranging from motorcycles to medium tanks took part in this problem, which was a reproduction of "the fire power demonstration" given for President Roosevelt on his recent visit here.

Resignation Of Undersecretary Not Accepted

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 12—President Roosevelt on Tuesday refused to accept the resignation of Abe Fortas, undersecretary of the interior, to permit him to enter the armed forces.

The President's action came after Interior Secretary Ickes wrote to the President saying:

"I know Mr. Fortas has submitted his resignation because he did not want me or the administration to suffer as a result of possible attacks on him for remaining in a civilian position. If his resignation is accepted not only will I lose my most important lieutenant but the government will lose an important official."

The president then wrote Fortas: "I appreciate the motives which prompted you to send me your resignation. You can best serve your country by continuing to do your job as undersecretary of the interior, where you are responsible for so many war activities and as a member of various committees to which you have been appointed. I shall not accept your resignation."
